to those who enjoyed michael idehall's 'prophecies of the storm' release on ant-zen, raubbau is proud to present a further outing of this outstanding artist's self-coined 'seancetronica' sound exploration - a one-of-a-kind combination of death industrial, apocalyptic tunes with a subliminal song structure and dark, structured ambience. once again the swedish producer/performer evokes a crude, vicious force carrying intense tempers of menace, aggression and sadness with a strong streak of esoteric themes and personal poetics shaping the mood and tone.

idehall's rich baritone intoning ritual chants and secretive whispers with a solemn atmosphere, highlight the arcane bent of the heavy electronics pushed with striking tautologic sequences. from sparse throbs and slow paced beats to cinematic ambient elements and industrial overtones, 'aion reborn' displays a captivating mixture of alluring vocals, throbbing bass, pounding beats, ominous drones and metallic tremors.

an engaging album that provides a gripping and sometimes horrific tale from start to finish where the lack of an easy path for pursuit is part of the experience - hypnotic, forceful and savage. highly recommended.
