like a well-prepared appetizer, a single release can be an overly tasty experience, as satisfying as a full meal. one can surely trust the chefs scott e. candey aka gruntsplatter, master in preparing disturbing dark ambience, and thomas garrison aka control, rogue noise cook par excellence, with their respective experience of over 20 years, to fully meet your expectations. both tracks clock in around six minutes, with "in the blood" generating a vortex of almost classic industrial sounds treated to psychedelic effect, and "hunting extinction" capturing a dehumanized, hostile environment. mouth-watering excellence for the noise-savvy!
